EXPERIENCE

2011 – present

DIGITAL PLANNER
Studio Round
Melbourne, Australia

Studio Round is one of Australia's premiere design companies.

In my role as Digital Planner, it's my job to define, plan and deliver all digital projects that come through the studio. This encompasses strategy, user experience design, information architecture and technical execution.

2010 – 2011

LEAD INTERACTIVE DEVELOPER
Strategy Design & Advertising
Auckland, New Zealand

NOTE: In December 2010, Seven merged with one of New Zealand's leading design agencies Strategy Design & Advertising. My role remained unchanged.

2005 – 2010

LEAD INTERACTIVE DEVELOPER
Seven Limited
Auckland, New Zealand

Seven was a design agency based in Auckland, New Zealand.

I was responsible for the creation of all interactive projects that came through the studio. I worked across a broad range of devices and mediums, including websites, backend systems, flash games, touchscreen devices, presentation software and television title sequences.

I helped evolve Seven from a studio solely producing static microsites, into a full-service agency that was capable of building database-driven websites with complex interaction.

In my role I spent a lot of time explaining systems and user user paths to clients in simple, easy-to-understand terms. I also worked closely with designers to ensure they produce user-friendly, technically viable interfaces.

2003 – 2005

DESIGNER & DEVELOPER
The Training Market
Hamilton, New Zealand

I worked as the designer and developer on a range of products. The role included designing software interfaces, building promotional websites, developing Flash database-driven applications and promotional motion graphics.
